Our legal team is well-versed in the full range of federal laws and regulations governing financial services institutions and individuals, including FINRA conduct rules, SEC rules and the new Department of Labor ("DOL") Fiduciary Rule, among others. We also counsel our clients on compliance matters involving state laws and regulations, such as state requirements covering the sale of annuities. Kaufman Dolowich attorneys represent financial services institutions and individuals in connection with regulatory investigations, licensing actions, enforcement proceedings and other lawsuits nationwide.

Our firm's Financial Services Practice includes former regulators and in-house lawyers, including an attorney with over 10 years of experience working in-house for a broker-dealer. Our clients trust that we not only know the law, we also know their businesses. We speak our clients' language and work with them to develop compliance strategies and practices that make good business sense.
